'So athletes and policemen who are wise never tolerate corns. They get rid of them.' There is no substitute for good old Blue-jay. For more than 25 years it has been vanquishing corns to the count of millions yearly. For Blue-jay first of all relieves the cause of corns. Its cool, cushiony pad ends the pressure and pain at once. LACROSSE CLUBS HOPE TO GET HAMPDEN PARK Spectators Much Closer to the Play in the New Grounds

If the city council to-day approves of the property committee's recommendation, which permits the new stands at Hampden Park to be of the same height as the former bleachers, then local lacrosse fans will be enabled to view the game this season with more ease than in the past. The covered stands which will extend along the west side of the field will have received seat accommodation, thus avoiding the necessity of fans parking themselves in the sun a half an hour or more prior to the commencement of the game. Another feature of the new grounds will be that the spectators will be much closer to the play than formerly, there being no wide aisle between the stand proper and the playing space.

"Dip" Clapper who is expected to make a name for himself on the Irish-Canadian circuit around the past season's championship, the known Clapper lacrosse family. The father, Bill Clapper, is well remembered in the North York section where he played for Aurora after which he played with Ottawa, and later with Hastings. Clapper Junior has all the earmarks of a coming star, is a stolidly built and good stick handler. His position will be on the defense.

Another young Irishman who in his first year's company was "Ole" O'Brien, whose feature in the Western games was the checking of "Big Bob" Stephens, a former of the "Light side" O'Brien is fleet of foot, has plenty of lacrosse brains, and should score a few goals this season in the majors.

"Bud" Small, the former Fergus juvenile, who played for the Irish. He is a good field general but was kept out of the game toward the end of last season with injuries, thus depriving the team of a valuable group honors. He should do well in senior company this year.

"Gene" Denny, secretary of the O.A.L.A., coach of St. Simons seniors, is going to be the busy young youth this summer. The secretarial duties alone are a mammoth job, but "Gene" has committed himself to the coaching duties for the "Saints" prior to accepting the secretary's job and will carry on in a dual capacity.

St. Simons made no mistake when they landed Sandy Hiding, as they were in dire need of a field general. Riding calibre and one who can add that dash on the attack. The Saints should, therefore, be bolstered when they have been lacking in the past.

Wallace, the star inside home guard of St. Simons junior champions, should be of assistance to the seniors this year. He can carry on between the flags, too, hence the Saints are not worrying over the goal position should Al. Coutin meet with mishap.

Toronto-Mattlands should be well supplied with material in the next couple of seasons. About 200 to 300 hundred youngsters who are each night turning out to practice with a view to catching a glimpse of the Toronto Suburbs and Junior O.A.L.A. teams. "Max" Johnston is afraid that they will have to start a league of their own to take care of many of these promising youngsters, there being far too many good ones for the teams operating in the T. and S. section.

The O.A.L.A. executive are apparently out to protect teams who endeavor to build up a club, a senior culture only to find that some of their stars have flown when May Day arrives. The only way to overcome the difficulty is so far as the Toronto Suburbs and Junior O.A.L.A. teams are concerned is to date the residence rule back to January 1.

Why Orange-CRUSH is always in the Krinkly Bottle

When you ask for Orange-CRUSH—when your youngsters ask for Orange-CRUSH—occasionally an unscrupulous dealer may hand out an inferior substitute—goodness knows what—for the sake of a fraction of a cent more profit a bottle. The name Orange-CRUSH blown right into the Krinkly Bottle is always a guide to the genuine.

But most dealers are honest. They hand you Orange-CRUSH when you ask for it and they never cheat your youngsters with an inferior imitation. Although Orange-CRUSH costs the dealer more than products of inferior quality, Orange-CRUSH builds constantly increasing volume of sales, because it is the most popular fruit-flavored drink in the world.

And no wonder—First, the juice of luscious oranges—next, the delightful flavor of their peel—next, sparkling, carbonated water. Add the zestful tang of the fruit acid found in oranges, lemons and limes—a pure food color, such as you use in your cakes and candies—pure cane sugar. Orange-CRUSH is the largest-selling fruit-flavored drink in the world.
