

Plan Safety Program Among Island Adults

Superintendent George Ragen of the Toronto Harbor Police claims records show that an average of three pre-school age children drown each year in island lagoons and the responsibility lies mainly with parents. "Something must be done to bring home the danger to every adult," Mr. Ragen said.

Mr. Ragen called a meeting of island fire, police, parks, school and church officials following the death last week of Ian Wilson, 5, whose body was recovered from Centre Island Lagoon after more than three hours dragging.

The group asked T. J. Golds, president of the Inter-Island Council, to have his group institute a safety program. The matter will come up at the June 17 meeting.

Island fire and police officials said there is no recorded case of a child dying because of lack of rescue or resuscitation facilities. They warned that parents must learn to call for help as soon as a child is missed.

B. S. Hemingway, principal of the Island Public School, said children from about the age of eight up are extremely conscious of the danger of the lagoons. He said they constantly carry the message home and work to shepherd smaller children away from dangerous areas.

Parks Superintendent H. G. Boucher said he will have his men keep a close watch for children and warn them away from lagoons where possible. He said he will take up the matter of posting warning signs in some areas with the parks commission.

Addressing representatives of 50 handicapped clubs from all over Ontario at the King Edward Hotel, Miss Mowat, herself handicapped, said that since the Second World War the doors have been opening rapidly to handicapped persons.

Miss Mowat warned the group never to make the mistake of saying they could not do something. "Do not turn something down just because you have never done anything like it before. You may well discover you have hidden talents."

At their Saturday morning meeting, the group resolved to delegate a committee to go to Ottawa to petition the finance minister for further increases in pensions for handicapped persons and old-age pensioners. At the same time they voted to ask for an increase in the allowable earned income up to a minimum of $1,000, without jeopardizing their pensions.

Majority of the Hungarians who have passed through Toronto reception centres are settled in jobs and the number wanting to go back is negligible, officials of the Canadian Hungarian Federation said last night.

They termed nonsense the reported comments of a Hungarian in Vancouver, Victor Papp-Vid, that 80 per cent of Hungarian immigrants would leave again if they could, unless they got work immediately.

Officials here said approximately 7,000 have been received at Toronto reception centres and another 1,500 sponsored refugees have passed through the city. Many of these have moved on to other Ontario centres, but about 5,000 are settled in jobs in the city. Of these 5,000 an estimated 80 to 85 per cent are employed on permanent work, the remaining 15 to 20 per cent in temporary jobs.

There are also 600 men, women and children still in the reception centre and many of these are harder to place because of some physical disability, their employment category or family situation (such as mothers with small children).

Nevertheless, the numbers wishing to return home are so small they barely add up in the general statistics, Hungarian Federation officials said.

Prizes Awarded At Port Hope

Port Hope, June 9.—C. S. Dunbar of Guelph, R. T. Hall of Toronto, and D. E. Cape of Montreal shared the Bronze Medal, principal award at the 92nd Speech Day at Trinity College School Saturday. General Sir Neil M. Ritchie presented the prizes.

Gen. Ritchie, met by a guard of honor from the school cadet corps on his arrival, told students Canada needed men devoted to unselfish work in developing its natural resources. Leadership and effort were two qualities required which were learned at schools such as Trinity. Dunbar and Hall shared the Grand Challenge Cup for athletics, with Cape runner-up. The head boy and Chancellor's Prize went to D. C. M. Sutton of Toronto. He and D. A. Young, also of Toronto, divided the Governor-General's Silver Medal for English. C. E. Chaffey of Montreal won the Founder's Prize for science, and also the Jubilee Exhibition for mathematics. The Boulden House Bronze Medal was awarded to J. A. Burton of Toronto.

Archbishop R. J. Renison was among guests at the ceremony. He assisted at the service prior to distribution of the prizes.

CHARGED WITH THEFT
 George Kelly, 26, of Parliament St., was charged Saturday with the theft of 10,000 rounds of .22 ammunition after two men tried to sell ammunition at a second-hand store on Queen St. E.

Slams Door on Gunman, Watchman Shot in Arm

A night watchman was shot in the arm last night when he slammed the door of a Scarborough dairy warehouse in the face of a masked gunman.

Gordon Chapman, 56, of 183 Main St. was treated in Scarborough General Hospital for a bullet wound in the left upper arm.

He told police a tall man with a handkerchief over his face knocked at the office door of Acme Farmers Dairy, Lawrence Ave. E. at Midland Ave., shortly after 10 p.m.

"Open this door and let me in," the bandit demanded, as Chapman stuck his head out. Chapman ignored the order.

He said the gunman went to a window and threatened to shoot again if Chapman didn't admit him. The watchman remained silent and motionless, and after a few minutes the frustrated gunman went away.

Police are seeking a late model car seen speeding away a few minutes after the robbery attempt.

Rural Roundup Norfolk Farmers Work on Furrows

By ELDON STONEHOUSE
 Globe and Mail Farm Reporter
 Preparations are under way for this year's International Plowing Match near Simcoe Oct. 15 to 18. The local committee, headed by Ralph Golding, assisted by George Bramhill, Norfolk agricultural representative, has been meeting regularly, while 12 sub-committees have been working on detailed arrangements. Items include the tented city and the big farm machinery and equipment display, which this year will be on the farm of Mike Lizon.

Since match competition calls for certain types of land, Mr. Lizon and his neighbors have taken the match into consideration in their crop plans. They have to be certain there are sufficient sod and stubble fields available, as well as others with a good solid sod base to be used for parking during the match.

The farm improvement competition has attracted about 200 competitors so far. The project calls for dressing up farms in the area, with judging early in September, and prizes awarded during the match.

Before Canada's International opens, Canadians will have a chance to visit the World Plowing Match at Peebles, Ohio, Tuesday. Canadians, Hugh Baird of Blackwater, and Stanley With of Cornwall, P.E.I., top winners at last year's international, will compete for the world title in September.

The international will be opened by Highways Minister Allan and Agriculture Minister Goodfellow, speaker at the annual banquet.

Deadline for field inspection of potato crops for seed certification is June 15, the Ontario Department of Agriculture has announced. There is no charge for the service, and the minimum requirement is one acre planted to foundation or certified grade potatoes.

To encourage use of Ontario potatoes, the Provincial Government will pay half the freight charges on carload shipments of seed potatoes from Northern Ontario.

Application forms for seed certification can be obtained from agricultural representatives, from the field crops branch of the department, or from offices of the seed potato certification service of the Canada Department of Agriculture at London, Barrie, Guelph, Ottawa and Winnipeg, for northwestern Ontario.

Police arrested William Rainey, 22, of Belhaven Rd., Saturday night when they found him lying injured outside a car sales office at 1301 Danforth Ave. A citizen who heard glass being broken called police. They found Rainey lying on the ground with his leg cut. He was charged with shop-breaking.

Daily Newspaper Advertising plus Dealer "Hookers" ... AND FORSYTH SAYS

"The results were phenomenal"

The Only English Broadcloth Shirt That Needs Absolutely No Ironing

NO-IRON shirt by Forsyth

"Some stores sold out in a matter of hours"

When introducing their new No-Iron English Broadcloth Shirt, John Forsyth Limited felt... and rightly so... that it was absolutely necessary to reach as many people as possible and to direct consumers to local sources of supply. They also felt that, besides supporting men's wear merchants at their local level, it was also desirable to have their dealers participate in this product launching at little cost to themselves.

To achieve this, they turned to daily newspapers and "hooker" advertising. THE RESULTS WERE PHENOMENAL. In a matter of days... in some cases hours... stores were entirely sold out of Forsyth No-Iron English Broadcloth Shirts.

Another amazing success story from the files of the C.D.N.P.A. Positive, dramatic proof of the sales impact offered by daily newspapers.

Harness the great selling power of daily newspapers for your advertising campaigns. Ask the advertising managers of your daily newspapers how "hookers" can work wonders for you.

* A hooker is a small advertisement which gives a dealer's name and address and is voluntarily appended by him to a national advertisement.
